I am extremely grateful to Professor P. K. Chaubey for the guidance he provided during my research and dissertation writing. His research experience and deep understanding of economics proved to be invaluable and have ensured that the research was completely focussed and of high quality. Having worked in GAIL (India) Ltd. for nearly four years, I have developed insights into the natural gas sector and tended to assume many times that the person reading this work would automatically understand many basic issues facing the sector. Professor Chaubey's supervision ensured that I resist any such temptation and work from the basics, resulting in a properly referenced and easily comprehensible dissertation.

Sri Girish Chandra Chaturvedi, Secretary, Ministry of Petroleum & Natural Gas was kind enough to discuss some of the conclusions arrived at in this work and validate them from the Government of India perspective. Chairman & Managing Director, GAIL (India) Ltd., Sri B. C. Tripathi also provided practical insights into GAIL's perspective on the issues involved. Many officers of GAIL helped me in obtaining data required for this research, and the assistance provided by Sri S. B. Sarkar, GM (Vigilance) and Sri V. N. Dutt, GM (Marketing) is particularly worth mentioning.

Prof. Pranab Banerji and Prof. Rakesh Gupta, Course Directors for 38th APPPA, were extremely helpful and supportive throughout my research work, right from choosing the research topic to submission of the dissertation. Sri A. K. Taneja, Sri Manish Rawat, Sri Bal Krishna and Sri Vinod Kumar Yadav in APPPA office also have my sincerest thanks for the assistance they provided.

I am also thankful to Sri Ajeet Kumar, Confidential Secretary to Chief Vigilance Officer, GAIL for his support during the entire period of my deputation to IIPA.

Lastly, but most important of all, I would like to thank my wife for bearing with me during this research work. She took keen interest in my research work and gave me an outsider's perspective to the issues involved. My children Neelesh, Devesh and Nandini also deserve my heartfelt gratitude for prodding me continuously to excel in all my activities during the 38th APPPA, having seen me for the first time in their lives in the role of a student. For them, it was a role reversal wherein they could monitor my performance for a change and list out their expectations from me rather than the usual one way exchange of expectations that took place earlier. Much of the quality of this research work is the result of my efforts to live up to their expectations.
