

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to place on record my sincere gratitude to the faculty members of the IIPA and in particular, Prof V.S.R.Krishnaiah under whose guidance this study was undertaken, for devoting his time and steering me along the course.

I would like to thank Shri Rajeev Kishore, Director (Manpower Planning), Railway Board and Ms Manju Dy Dir (Manpower Planning) for providing me with the training manuals, data relating to training and other documents which were referred to for this study and most of all for lending me their ears and updating me on various areas of training on the Indian Railways. They also facilitated my meetings with officers of various departments who are associated with the training function for discussions and interviews. My special thanks to all these officers for sparing their valuable time and helping me crystallize my thoughts.

I am grateful to my colleagues in the Northern Railway and Ms V.G. Bhooma, Dy CPO, my colleague from Integral Coach Factory (ICF), for listening to my ideas and giving me useful suggestions.

I wish to thank Shri R.D. Choudhury, Executive Director E(N), Railway Board for helping me with myriad things, among them lending me his laptop during the last month, which came in really handy.

Last, but not the least, I am grateful to Shri N Raghuraman and Shri B. N. Rao, my colleagues in the IIPA for encouraging me to go ahead with this subject which I keenly desired to pursue but was not confident of doing justice to. A special mention must also be made of my husband, Chandan, who gave me useful snippets of information relating to my subject and was generally my listening post.
