

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I had initially chosen to write my dissertation on the failures of the WTO and what next. However, due to the erudite guidance of Prof. Nand Dhameja, I changed to a positive focus, i.e., on the successes of the organisation, to study and suggest measures that will make it more useful for India and the developing countries, many of who are struggling to meet the challenges of an increasingly protectionist world. Based on our discussions this examination of the Dispute Settlement Mechanism of the WTO developed. Prof Dhameja, at all stages of writing this dissertation, has brought me and my study back to a sharp focus, removing the wide range of issues impacting WTO today which I waywardly tried to include.

In helping me write this dissertation, my heartfelt thanks go out to Ms. Shandana Gulzar Khan, earlier at the Advisory Centre for WTO Law (ACWL), who has been source of support and an effective sounding board for my ideas. Mr. Atul Kaushik, Addl. Secretary Rajya Sabha Secretariat, my friend and colleague for the past 20 years, his is the wisest voice, I know, on WTO Disputes. He has been of immense help in reading and aiding me in making the dissertation flow and end logically. My thanks go out to Mr. Abhjit Das, Head Centre for WTO Studies, who has been a constant source of advice, information and confidence. I would also like to thank Mr. Roy Santana, Counsellor at the WTO Market Access Division for pointing me in the right direction to get the needed data.

For their encouragement, assistance and nudging from time to time to complete the tasks, I express my sincere gratitude to the Programme Directors, Prof. Sushma Yadav and Prof. Sheela Reddy. My heartfelt thanks are due to the administrative staff of APPPA office for providing logistic help and support.

Finally, I profusely thank my wife Ms. Sonali Ghosh Sen, she has been more concerned than me about my completing the dissertation on time and well. She has supported me immensely by giving me time, exempting me from necessary household chores and duties – all just to complete this dissertation.
