First of all, I would like to place on record my thanks to my parent organization, National Human Rights Commission, for sponsoring me for the 38th APPPA course which has been a very good learning experience. The choice of the topic of this dissertation came naturally to my mind due to my association with this issue while being in NHRC. I thank my parent organization for an exposure to such a sensitive issue.

In completing this dissertation I took the guidance, support and help of several individuals all of whom I wish to thank from the deepest corner of my heart. I would like to thank my guide Prof. J. Guha Roy, who regardless of his academic and professional commitments, spared precious time to steer my research work, read the drafts and offer his perceptive comments. His support and guidance motivated me to complete this work on schedule.

In formulating the scope of this research work and for obtaining in depth knowledge, I took help of my colleagues namely Dr. Savita Bhakhri, Deputy Secretary (Research), NHRC and Shri B.S. Nagar, Under Secretary, NHRC and I acknowledge their contribution. I am also thankful to Shri S.A. Azad from PRASAR (NGO) for giving me in depth information about the gravity of problem and suffering of workers. I also would like to place on record my sincere thanks to Shri S.S. Waghe, Director in the office DG FASLI for providing me not only in site information but also the vital statistics/data, which helped me in this research.

The officials of the APPPA office provided excellent support in writing of this dissertation and putting it into a presentable form.

Finally I would like to thank my family for showing utmost co-operation in living me undisturbed while I was doing this research.
