

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The dissertation embodies a substantial contribution made by several scholars, academicians and practitioners in one way or other, while incorporating the finding of the field survey carried out in an exploratory way. But first of all, I would like to begin with conveying my sincere gratitude and heartfelt thanks to the Department of Agriculture and Cooperation, Government of India, for nominating me for the 37th APPPA, which made it possible for me to pursue the research in such an important theme touching upon relevant and contemporary socio-economic issues of the Nation.

I would like to express my profound gratitude to Prof. Nand Dhameja, for his valuable advice, constant support and guidance in conducting the field survey and preparation of my dissertation. It was indeed a real pleasure to discuss various issues with him, given his profound thinking on the subject and the prudent suggestions that went a long way to bring out the study in its present form. My sincere thanks are also due to Prof. K.K.Pandey, our Program Director, as well as to Dr. Sachin Chowdhry, Co-Program Director, both of whom always supported me with a lot of encouragement to carry on with the research work.

No word of appreciation is enough for Dr B. K. Paty, Director (Marketing), Govt. of Odisha, Bhubaneswar and Shri R.C.Panda, Sr. Marketing Officer, Directorate of Marketing and Inspection in Bhubaneswar for providing me with excellent academic input for the field survey. My thanks are also due to other colleagues of Directorate of Marketing and Inspection posted in the field units, who rendered timely assistance for the survey. Similarly my thanks are also due to the officers of State Agriculture Marketing Board of Maharashtra, Karnataka, and Gujarat for extending a similar assistance.

My special thanks are due to my wife Ms. Ipsita Swain, for her self-less service in providing encouragement and necessary support to me, without which it would have been very difficult to carry out my research work. My sincere thanks are to my son Master Prateek Swain, who served as my de-facto computer teacher and time keeper in ensuring that I don't fall behind time in preparation of a good document.

I express my gratitude to Prof. Rakesh Hooja, Director, Indian Institute of Public Administration, New Delhi for providing me valuable suggestions at synopsis stage for carrying out the research work. I express my sincere thanks to Dr. B. K. Sikka, former Dean of College of Agri-Business Management, G B Pant University of Agriculture and Technology, Pant Nagar, for going through the manuscript and making some valuable suggestions. I also express my gratitude to all my course mates and colleagues who were a constant source of inspiration for me. My sincere thanks are also due to the faculty members, staff of APPPA secretariat and library staff of IIPA for helping me in various ways to complete the work.

(Prasanta Kumar Swain)
37th APPPA, IIPA
New Delhi