

Quiz 1

Quantitative research is:

- a. more likely to take a deductive approach.
- b. more likely to take an objectivist ontological position.
- c. more likely to be informed by a positivist epistemological position.
- d. all of the above.

Quiz 2

Qualitative research:

- a. cannot be combined with quantitative research.
- b. is aimed at entirely different phenomena than quantitative research.
- c. is always inductive, interpretivist and constructivist.
- d. none of the above.

Quiz 3

Deductive research is where:

- a. the researcher uses an existing theory to develop a hypothesis.
- b. the researcher subjects a hypothesis to empirical scrutiny.
- c. the researcher has to transform concepts within a hypothesis into researchable entities.
- d. all of the above.